Traditional Indian Jewellery Names List PDF

Jewelry Type	Description	Examples
Mangalsutra	Sacred necklace worn by married Hindu women symbolizing marital status.	Traditional gold and black bead mangalsutra.
Kundan	Jewelry with gemstones set in a gold foil base.	Kundan necklace with intricate gemstone settings.
Polki	Uncut diamonds set in gold, used in elaborate designs.	Polki earrings with gold and diamond settings.
Jhumka	Traditional Indian bell-shaped earrings.	Gold jhumkas with intricate designs.
Choker	Close-fitting necklace worn on the neck.	Velvet choker with a pendant.
Haar	Long, layered necklace made of gold or precious stones.	Gold haar with emerald and ruby stones.
Maang Tikka	Headpiece worn on the forehead, often adorned with gemstones.	Kundan maang tikka with a central pendant.
Nose Ring	Jewelry worn on the nose, hoop or stud.	Hoop nose ring with a small gemstone.
Bajubandh	Armlet worn on the upper arm, decorated with gemstones.	Silver bajubandh with intricate designs.
Anklet	Jewelry worn around the ankle, often made of silver or gold.	Gold anklet with small dangling charms.
Toe Rings	Rings worn on the toes, considered auspicious in Hindu culture.	Silver toe rings with engraved patterns.
Bangles	Bracelets worn on the wrist, made of metal, glass, or lacquer.	Set of glass bangles in vibrant colors.
Pendants	Ornamental pieces suspended from a necklace or chain.	Diamond pendant on a gold chain.
Nath	Large decorative nose ring often worn by brides.	Kundan nath with a chain attached to the hair.
Kamarbandh	Waistband or belt adorned with gemstones.	Gold kamarbandh with intricate carvings.

Jewelry Type	Description	Examples
Passa	Side headpiece worn on one side with chains and ornaments.	Kundan passa with dangling pearls.
Tikka	Small decorative piece worn on the forehead.	Pearl and gold tikka with intricate design.
Rani Haar	Long necklace with precious stones and pearls.	Rani haar with emeralds, rubies, and pearls.
Navratna	Necklace or pendant with nine different gemstones.	Navratna pendant with astrological significance.
Temple Jewellery	Traditional jewelry inspired by Hindu temple architecture.	Temple necklace with intricate carvings.
Kolhapuri Saaj	Maharashtrian jewelry with multiple layers of gold beads.	Kolhapuri Saaj necklace with intricate pendants.
Vanki	Armlet worn on the upper arm, V-shaped and studded with gemstones.	Gold vanki with embedded gemstones.
Panchangala	Set of five rings worn on all fingers of one hand.	Gold panchangala with traditional designs.
Poothali	Kerala necklace made of gold coins, worn by brides.	Gold poothali necklace with coin motifs.
Pacheli	Wide bracelet or cuff adorned with gemstones.	Silver pacheli with intricate designs.
Chandbali	Crescent-shaped earring with intricate designs.	Chandbali earrings with pearls and gemstones.
Ambada	Maharashtrian hairpin adorned with gemstones.	Gold ambada with traditional motifs.
Jadau	Jewelry involving precious stones set in a gold framework.	Jadau necklace with polki diamonds.
Lakh Jewelry	Jewelry made from lacquer with colorful enamel work.	Lakh necklace with vibrant enamel patterns.
Guttapusalu	Andhra Pradesh necklace with pearls and gold beads.	Guttapusalu with gemstone pendants.
Thushi	Maharashtrian choker made of closely woven gold beads.	Gold thushi necklace with intricate patterns.

Jewelry Type	Description	Examples
Kada	Thick, circular bangle or bracelet made of gold or silver.	Gold kada with engraved designs.
Kaanbala	Traditional Bengali earrings covering the entire ear.	Gold kaanbala with intricate details.
Nethi Chutti	Forehead ornament worn by brides in Tamil Nadu.	Nethi chutti with gemstones and pearls.
Kandora	Kashmiri necklace made of gold or silver with filigree work.	Gold kandora with intricate filigree.
Toda	Rajasthani hair ornament, circular or crescent-shaped.	Silver toda with gemstone embellishments.
Mukut	Ceremonial crown worn by deities or brides.	Gold mukut with gemstone embellishments.
Nathni	Nose ring in Rajasthan and Gujarat with a long chain.	Nathni with uncut diamonds and chain.
Kammal	Tamil Nadu ankle ornament made of gold or silver.	Gold kammal with intricate designs.
Kolusu	South Indian anklets made of silver or gold.	Silver kolusu with small bells.
Gajra	Floral garland worn as a hair accessory in South India.	Jasmine gajra with fresh flowers.
Putli Haar	Necklace made of small gold or silver dolls.	Putli haar with miniature gold dolls.
Gulubandh	Necklace sitting close to the neck with a circular pendant.	Gold gulubandh with intricate design.
Champakali	Earring resembling a champak flower in Rajasthan and Gujarat.	Champakali earrings with gold and pearls.
Tussi	Punjabi necklace made of interlocking gold or silver links.	Tussi necklace with traditional motifs.
Pukhraj	Ring or pendant featuring a yellow sapphire.	Pukhraj pendant with astrological significance.
Amrapali	Necklace or earring inspired by ancient Indian jewelry.	Amrapali necklace with intricate designs.

Jewelry Type	Description	Examples
Kankanalu	Set of bangles or bracelets worn on the wrists in Telangana and Andhra Pradesh.	Silver kankanalu with traditional patterns.
Aad	Rajasthani necklace made of cowrie shells.	Aad necklace with cowrie shell motifs.
Jadanagam	South Indian hair ornament with a serpent or cobra design.	Gold jadanagam with intricate details.
Moti Haar	Necklace made of pearls, worn on special occasions.	Moti haar with large pearls.
Pachchikam	Gujarat jewelry made of silver with oxidized designs.	Pachchikam necklace with oxidized patterns.
Kaintha	Necklace made of multiple strings of beads or pearls.	Kaintha with vibrant bead strings.
Hansli	Rajasthani necklace made of gold or silver with a circular or crescent-shaped pendant.	Gold hansli with traditional motifs.
Ratanchur	Set of finger rings with different gemstones.	Ratanchur with assorted gemstone rings.
Kadli	Maharashtrian necklace made of gold or silver, multiple strands of beads.	Gold kadli with central pendant.
Timaniya	Gujarati choker-style necklace made of gold or silver.	Gold timaniya with intricate designs.
Patwa	Rajasthani necklace made of multiple strings of beads.	Colorful patwa with bead patterns.
Satlada	Seven-stringed necklace worn by brides in Maharashtra.	Satlada with pearls and gold.
Jadtar	Jewelry from Rajasthan and Gujarat, gemstones set in gold with enamel work.	Jadtar necklace with enamel details.
Sakha	Bengali bangles made of red and white coral.	Sakha bangles with coral beads.
Haath Phool	Hand harness or hand jewelry, often made of gold or silver.	Gold haath phool with gemstone settings.
Bulaki	Himachali bracelet made of silver with intricate filigree work.	Silver bulaki with detailed filigree.

Jewelry Type	Description	Examples
Navli Patti	Gujarati necklace with multiple strands of beads.	Navli patti with vibrant bead strands.
Surliya	Nose ring worn in Gujarat and Rajasthan with a long chain.	Surliya with gold chain attachment.
Kanthi	Long necklace made of multiple strings of beads or pearls.	Kanthi with intricate bead strings.
Mohan Mala	Rajasthani necklace with multiple strands of beads.	Mohan mala with central pendant.
Kangan	Traditional Indian bangle made of gold or silver.	Gold kangan with engraved patterns.
Jadau Nath	Nose ring with a chain connecting to the hair, featuring uncut diamonds.	Jadau nath with polki diamonds.
Kan Chain	South Indian waist chain made of gold with intricate designs or gemstones.	Gold kan chain with traditional motifs.
Baalis	Traditional Indian hoop earrings made of gold or silver.	Gold baalis with intricate patterns.
Addigai	South Indian necklace with multiple strands of beads and a central pendant.	Gold addigai with traditional designs.
Kaasu Mala	South Indian necklace made of gold coins.	Kaasu mala with gold coin motifs.
Surya Haar	Necklace featuring a sun-shaped pendant made of gold or silver.	Surya haar with intricate sun design.
Mor Pankh	Peacock feather-inspired jewelry as a pendant, earring, or brooch.	Mor pankh pendant with colorful details.

In conclusion, Indian jewellery boasts a rich heritage with a diverse array of styles, designs, and materials used in different regions of India. With exquisite craftsmanship, elaborate patterns, and gemstone embellishments, these pieces hold cultural significance and are often worn during weddings, festivals, and special occasions.

Whether it's a nose ring, waist belt, hand harness, or anklet, Indian jewellery reflects the rich cultural diversity and craftsmanship of India, making it a treasure trove for jewellery enthusiasts and collectors alike.